SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

12 CFR part 16 generally requires national bank securities offerings to conform to Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) offering rules and procedures set forth in the Securities Act of 1933 (33 Act).¹ Part 16 cross-references SEC requirements for securities registration statements, including the requirement that companies provide audited financial statements.² This requirement applies to “developmental stage” companies, which includes entities that are analogous to national bank charter applicants.³ Thus, through the OCC’s incorporation of these SEC requirements, national bank charter applicants are required to provide audited financial statements in connection with their registration statements filed with the OCC for an offer and sale of securities.

This notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) is part of an ongoing OCC effort to reduce unnecessary regulatory burden on national banks, including applicants for national bank charters. For example, the OCC is working with the other federal banking agencies to produce a report required by section 2222 of the Economic Growth and Regulatory Paperwork Reduction Act of 1996 (EGRPRA), which directs the federal banking agencies to identify regulations that are outdated, unnecessary, or unduly burdensome, and to eliminate them if appropriate. The OCC also recently proposed comprehensive regulatory revisions aimed at reducing regulatory burden by, among other things, removing obsolete provisions, streamlining procedures required in connection with particular types of changes in structure and the conduct of certain activities, and incorporating into our rules interpretive opinions that the OCC has previously published.⁴

As a complement to these burden reducing measures, the OCC also has sought to identify the considerations most relevant to organizing groups for new community banks. This review encompasses both the standards and the processes that the OCC applies to such applicants.

The requirement for an organizing group of a national bank charter applicant to have audited financial statements may not be warranted in many cases. The process can be time-consuming and expensive. Applicants for a national bank charter have often found it difficult to schedule timely audits. This has resulted in costly delays for their securities offerings. Even after an auditing firm has been hired and the audit has been completed, there is a risk that an audit will become stale and need to be updated before the OCC can declare the registration statement effective.⁵

Moreover, an audited financial statement adds little that benefits potential investors, since there is no national bank business being transacted during the organizational phase, and the bank’s financial statements typically are rudimentary, reflecting little more than the bank account of the organizing group and organizational expenses incurred.

Finally, the OCC typically does not need to rely on audited financial statements in deciding applications for de novo national bank charters. In the case of national banks in organization before the OCC, unlike the establishment of most businesses whose registration statements are regulated by the SEC, the chartering of de novo national banks is a lengthy and comprehensive process that includes extensive ongoing review of the proposed bank’s management, financial resources, and business plan. This process provides the OCC the opportunity to carefully consider, on the basis of detailed information, whether the organizing group has the expertise and resources to operate a viable national bank.

II. The Proposal

For the reasons stated above, the OCC is proposing to amend part 16 to provide a general waiver of the requirement for an organizing group seeking to establish a national bank charter to use audited financial statements as part of a registration statement for the public offering of securities. The term “organizing group” would have the meaning set forth in 12 CFR 5.20(d)(6) of this chapter.

Under this proposed revision, however, the OCC would retain the authority to require an organizing group to furnish audited financial statements if the OCC concludes that to do so would be in the interest of investors or would further the safe and sound operation of a national bank. Examples of when the OCC may require audited financial statements include situations where review of the registration statement, or any other aspect of the organizing group’s application to charter a national bank, uncovers incomplete or inaccurate information about the organizing group’s finances or capital, or other material inaccuracies or misstatements.

III. Regulatory Analysis

Regulatory Flexibility Act

Pursuant to Section 605(b) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 605(b) (RFA), the regulatory flexibility analysis otherwise required under Section 604 of the RFA is not required if the agency certifies that the rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and publishes its certification and a short, explanatory statement in the Federal Register along with its rule.

This change would reduce the costs and expenses associated with the formation of a national bank and will not have a significant economic impact. Therefore, pursuant to Section 605(b) of the RFA, the OCC hereby certifies that this proposal will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, a regulatory flexibility analysis is not needed.

Executive Order 12866

The OCC has determined that this proposal is not a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866. We have concluded that the changes made by this rule will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more. The OCC further concludes that this proposal does not meet any of the other standards for a significant regulatory action set forth in Executive Order 12866.

Paperwork Reduction Act

In accordance with the requirements of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA), the Agencies may not conduct or sponsor, and the respondent is not required to respond to, an information collection unless it displays a currently valid Office of Management and Budget (OMB) control number.

The information collection requirements contained in this notice of proposed rulemaking have been submitted to OMB for review and approval under existing OMB control number 1557-0120 (Securities Offering Disclosure Rules).

The OCC is proposing to revise part 16 to add a waiver of audited financial statements for the organizing group of a national bank charter applicant for any

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995, Public Law 104-4 (2 U.S.C. 1532) (Unfunded Mandates Act), requires that an agency prepare a budgetary impact statement before promulgating any rule likely to result in a Federal mandate that may result in the expenditure by State, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector of $100 million or more in any one year. If a budgetary impact statement is required, Section 205 of the Unfunded Mandates Act also requires an agency to identify and consider a reasonable number of regulatory alternatives before promulgating a rule. The OCC has determined that this proposed rule will not result in expenditures by State, local, and tribal governments, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year. Accordingly, this proposal is not subject to Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Act.

The term “organizing group” shall have the meaning set forth in § 5.20(d)(6) of this chapter.

[Docket No. 2007N-0284]

Revision of the Requirements for Live Vaccine Processing; Companion to Direct Final Rule

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration, HHS.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is proposing to amend the biologics regulations by providing options to the existing requirement for the processing of live vaccines. FDA is proposing to amend the regulations due to advances in technology that will allow processing of live vaccines to be performed in multiproduct manufacturing areas. We are publishing this rule because the existing requirement regarding facilities and equipment for processing live vaccines is too prescriptive and is no longer necessary. We are taking this action as part of our continuing effort to reduce the burden of unnecessary regulations on industry and to revise outdated regulations without diminishing public health protection. This proposed rule is a companion document to the direct final rule published elsewhere in this issue of the Federal Register.
