In the attached final rule, the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) has deleted from its regulations the definitions of:

- consumer credit classified as loss
- slow consumer credit, and
- slow loans

These definitions are no longer necessary for the interpretation of any OTS regulation.

The final rule was published in the February 10, 1999, edition of the Federal Register, Vol. 64, No. 27, pp. 6502-6503, and is effective April 1, 1999.

Summary of Comment and Description of the Final Rule

OTS received one comment in response to the proposed rule from a thrift trade group. The commenter supported the proposal, noting that the FFIEC proposal to amend the Uniform Classification Policy would set out consistent, constructive guidance to identify and classify consumer loans. They agreed that retaining the cited regulatory definitions may cause confusion and is not necessary to meet any regulatory requirements.

Elsewhere in today's Federal Register, FFIEC has published its final Uniform Retail Credit Classification Policy. While the final policy adopted by FFIEC does not conflict with the cited OTS definitions, the cited definitions remain unnecessary, as they are not used elsewhere in OTS's regulations. Accordingly, OTS is deleting §§561.13, 561.47, and 561.48 as proposed.

Executive Order 12866

OTS has determined that this final rule does not constitute a "significant regulatory action" for the purposes of Executive Order 12866.

Regulatory Flexibility Act Analysis

Pursuant to section 605(b) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, OTS has determined that this final rule does not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The rule merely deletes unnecessary definitions from OTS regulations. This change should, therefore, reduce the burden of complying with regulations for all institutions, including small institutions.

Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995, Public Law 104–4 (Unfunded Mandates Act) requires that an agency prepare a budgetary impact statement before promulgating a rule that includes a Federal mandate that may result in expenditure by State, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year. If a budgetary impact statement is required, section 205 of the Unfunded Mandates Act also requires an agency to identify and consider a reasonable number of regulatory alternatives before promulgating a rule. As discussed above, this final rule reduces regulatory burden by eliminating unnecessary regulations. OTS has, therefore, determined that the effect of the rule will not result in expenditures by State, local, or tribal governments or by the private sector of $100 million or more. Accordingly, OTS has not prepared a budgetary impact statement or specifically addressed the regulatory alternatives considered.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

13 CFR Part 120

Business Loan Programs

AGENCY: Small Business Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) is promulgating a final rule to allow all participating Lenders to securitize the unguaranteed portion of, sell, securitize, or pledge 7(a) loans. The rule has two components: securitizations; and pledges, sales of participations, and sales other than for the purpose of securitizing. In the first component, SBA establishes a three level unified approach to regulating securitizations. In the second component, SBA sets out rules to govern all pledges of, sales of, or securitizing, 7(a) loans. The components apply equally to all depository and nondepository Lenders, leveling the playing field for all SBA Lenders. Both components were drafted to protect the safety and soundness of SBA’s 7(a) loan program.

DATES: Effective Date: This rule is effective April 12, 1999.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

SBA is promulgating a final rule to govern the securitization of the unguaranteed portion of and the sale, pledge of a participating interest in, or sale of 7(a) loans. The rule has two components. The first component governs securitizations (“securitization component”). For purposes of this regulation, a securitization is the pooling and sale of the unguaranteed portion of 7(a) loans, usually to a trust or special purpose vehicle, and the issuance of securities backed by those loans to investors in either a private placement or a public offering (“securitization”). In the securitizations of 7(a) loans to date, each investor has received an undivided ownership interest in the right to receive the principal of the unguaranteed portion of the pooled 7(a) loans, together with interest.

The second component of this final rule governs pledges of, sales of, participating interests in, and sales of, other than for the purpose of securitizing, 7(a) loans (“other conveyances”).

I. Securitization Component

Regulatory History

Congress and SBA have examined extensively whether and under what conditions SBA should permit Lenders to securitize the unguaranteed portion of 7(a) loans. Because Small Business Lending Companies (“SBLCs”), Business and Industrial Development Companies (“BIDCOs”) and other nondepository institutions (collectively the “nondepository Lenders”) do not have customer deposits to fund 7(a) lending, SBA, in 1992, permitted nondepository Lenders to securitize. Recognizing that securitization may benefit all Lenders, in 1996, SBA and Congress considered extending the securitization option to depository Lenders. On September 29, 1996, Congress enacted legislation requiring SBA to either promulgate regulations allowing both depository and nondepository Lenders to securitize or cease approving any securitizations. Because securitization and, more particularly, securitization of the unguaranteed portion of 7(a) loans is relatively new and involves significant risk, SBA officials went to great lengths to fashion this final rule responsibly. On November 29, 1996, SBA published the first of a series of Federal Register notices designed to elicit public participation in SBA’s development of the securitization regulation (61 FR 60649). SBA hoped to receive comments to assist SBA to craft a regulation allowing all Lenders to reap securitizations’ benefits without compromising the safety and soundness of the 7(a) program.

On February 26, 1997, SBA published its first proposed securitization regulation (62 FR 8640). The proposed regulation required all securitizations to include a 5 percent retention. SBA received approximately 25 comments. The commenters were divided almost equally on the proposal. Mindful of Congress’ mandate to promulgate a regulation or cease approving all securitizations, on April 2, 1997, SBA promulgated an interim final rule (62 FR 15601) to govern securitizations. The regulation allowed all SBA Lenders to securitize while SBA continued its thorough review of securitization issues. Under the interim final rule, SBA would review each proposed securitization on a case-by-case basis for safety and soundness concerns.

Following SBA’s promulgation of the proposed regulation, SBA held a public hearing, met with banking experts, and consulted with bank regulators from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Department of Treasury, the Federal Reserve Board, the Office of Federal Housing Enterprise Oversight, and the Office of Thrift Supervision (“bank regulators”). SBA carefully considered the comments provided by the experts, the bank regulators, and the industry before drafting another proposed regulation. SBA tested the economics of the current proposal. A Big Six accounting firm then validated all calculations.

On May 18, 1998, SBA published the current proposed securitization regulation (63 FR 27219). It linked SBA securitization approval to a securitizer’s credit quality and incorporated incentives for securitizers to safely securitize and service loans effectively. It provided a three level unified regulatory approach to securitizations. The three levels included: (1) a minimum capital requirement consistent with that imposed by bank regulators; (2) a retention requirement in the form of a subordinated tranche; and (3) a monitoring component whereby a decline in a securitizer’s Currency Rate (as defined in the rule) would trigger PLP loan approval and securitization approval suspension. The multi-faceted rule: (1) conditioned a securitizer’s ability to securitize on the securitizer’s financial strength; (2) set the required retention based on the individual securitizer’s credit quality history; and (3) invoked PLP benefits as an incentive for a securitizer to continue underwriting and servicing loans properly. The rule rewarded securitizers responsibly for past performance, current performance, and future performance, measuring current performance against past and that of the industry.
