

RESCINDED

December 1, 1993

Number: 91

The rescission of this Transmittal Letter does not address the status of the conveyed document. To determine the status of the conveyed document, please check with the original issuer of the document.

On June 4, 1993, four regulatory agencies proposed a rule under which loans up to $250,000 would not require an appraisal by a state licensed or certified appraiser. The new dollar trigger would raise the threshold from its current level of $100,000, and the rule would identify additional circumstances when appraisals are not required.

The agencies are placing supplemental information into the rulemaking record primarily relating to the proposed increase in the threshold level. With this requesting comment on those materials and on the public comments previously received.

The document was published in the Wednesday, November 10, 1993 edition of the Federal Register, Vol. 58, No. 216, pp. 59688-59689. Written comments must be received on or before December 10, 1993, and should be addressed to: Director, Information Services, Public Affairs Office, Office of Thrift Supervision, 1700 G Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20552.
