The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), along with the Office of Thrift Supervision, Federal Reserve Board (Board), and Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (the agencies), has issued a joint interim rule for the Community Reinvestment Act (CRA) regulations. This joint interim rule does not make substantive changes in the requirements of the CRA regulations. Instead, it conforms the CRA regulations to changes in: the Standards for Defining Metropolitan and Micropolitan Statistical Areas published by the U.S. Office of Management and Budget (OMB); census tracts designated by the U.S. Bureau of the Census (Census); and the Board's Regulation C, which implements the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act (HMDA). It also makes a technical correction to a cross-reference within the CRA regulations. The joint interim rule was effective July 8, 2004. The agencies invite comments on this joint interim rule; comments are due September 7.

This OCC bulletin distributes the joint interim rule, summarizes the effect of the changes on HMDA and CRA loan data collection and reporting, and provides recommendations for integrating these changes into national banks' HMDA and CRA programs.

Background

In December 2000, OMB revised its Standards for Defining Metropolitan and Micropolitan Areas. OMB finalized new metropolitan statistical area (MSA) boundaries in February 2004. These OMB changes were retroactive to December 2003. OMB changed the boundaries of many existing MSAs, created 49 new MSAs, and created some new types of statistical areas, including metropolitan divisions (MDs). OMB's changes resulted in a total of 369 MSAs and 29 MDs. The new identifying numbers for MSAs and MDs have five digits, versus four digits under the obsolete standards.

In addition to MDs, the new OMB statistical areas include micropolitan statistical areas (MicroSAs), combined statistical areas, and definitions for New England city and town areas, divisions and combined areas. The terms "consolidated MSA" (CMSA) and "primary MSA" (PMSA), from OMB's 1990 standards, have been eliminated. Instead, the 11 largest MSAs have been subdivided into two or more MDs. Each MD consists of one or more counties that represent an employment center within the larger MSA. Definitions and lists of these areas are included with OMB Bulletin 04-03, available at www.whitehouse.gov/omb/bulletins.

Also, this joint interim rule addresses changes made by Census and the Board. Census eliminated the term "block numbering area" in conjunction with its 2000 census. Instead, all areas are designated as "census tracts." The Board substantially revised Regulation C (12 CFR 203) in 2002, effective January 1, 2004. Among other changes, the revised Regulation C simplified the definition of "refinancing" so that now a loan is reportable as a refinancing if an obligation satisfies and replaces another obligation, and both the existing obligation and the new obligation are secured by a lien on a dwelling. 12 CFR 203.2(k)(2)
Joint Interim Rule

To conform the current CRA regulations to the changes by OMB, Census, and the Board, the joint interim rule:

1. Removes the definition of CMSA and all references to CMSA, replacing these references with MSA;
2. Revises the definition of MSA to remove the reference to PMSA;
3. Adds a definition for MD;
4. Revises the regulation to allow an institution to designate an assessment area that includes one or more MDs, just as an institution was allowed to designate an assessment area that included one or more PMSAs in the 1995 regulation;
5. Adds a definition for "nonmetropolitan area" and changes the reference for "non-MSA portion of each state" to "nonmetropolitan portion of each state" to ensure clarity;
6. Omits the term "block numbering area," consistent with Census changes;
7. Amends the definition of "home mortgage loan" to include refinancings, as well as home purchase loans and home improvement loans, as defined in 12 CFR 203.2, consistent with Board changes to Regulation C; and
8. Corrects an error in the 1995 CRA rule in the cross-reference found in 12 CFR 25.27(g)(1).

HMDA and CRA Programs

Data Collection and Reporting

Beginning January 1, 2004, HMDA and CRA data must be collected using the new OMB definitions. These data must be submitted by March 1, 2005. For HMDA and CRA purposes, only MSAs and MDs will be recognized: institutions subject to HMDA or CRA data collection and reporting have been instructed to report property location using MSA code or MD code if the property is located in an MD. MicroSAs and nonclassified areas are considered nonmetropolitan for all purposes under HMDA and CRA. Refer to the Web site of the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council (FFIEC) at www.ffiec.gov for data collection software, file specifications, and submission instructions.

In addition, due to the creation of 49 new MSAs and the changes to the boundaries of existing MSAs, more banks may be subject to the data collection and reporting requirements of HMDA. For example, a national bank may now have an office either in a new MSA or a revised MSA as of December 31, 2003. Also, some counties that were previously outside any MSA are now included within the boundaries of an MSA requiring banks to report the MSA/MD five-digit codes. Refer to the 2004 version of a Guide to HMDA Reporting: Getting It Right! at www.ffiec.gov/hmda/ for complete instructions on reporting property locations.

Assessment Areas

The application of OMB's 2000 standards also may affect CRA assessment area delineations. For example, using OMB's standards that were in effect prior to December 2003, a bank delineated an entire MSA as its assessment area. However, the 2000 standards may have resulted in a county being added to or deleted from that MSA. The bank should determine whether any changes to the relevant MSA boundaries have an impact on its assessment area delineation, and if so, whether the assessment area delineation remains reasonable. Refer to OMB Bulletin 04-03 for complete lists of every MSA and MD. Refer to the CRA regulation for the definition of assessment area.

Median Family Income

When the boundaries of an MSA change, the median family income values for that MSA and the statewide nonmetropolitan area generally change also. Therefore, OMB's designation of the MSA and MD boundaries required the determination of revised median family income values for the new and revised geographies (MSAs, MDs, and statewide nonmetropolitan areas). Estimated median family income values for existing and new MSAs, MDs, and statewide nonmetropolitan areas, using Census 2000 income data, have been posted to the FFIEC Web site. These estimated median family income values may be used for HMDA and CRA data and program purposes, to determine the income levels of geographies.

Recommendations for Banks

- Determine whether the bank is subject to HMDA data collection and reporting as a result of OMB’s new standards.
- Determine whether the bank is subject to any change(s) in HMDA and CRA data collection reporting due to MSA changes, i.e., reporting the MSA/MD five-digit codes, instead of "NA" or "99999," respectively.
- Review data collection processes for HMDA and CRA data to ensure that property locations are accurately reported.
- Revisit assessment area delineations in light of the MSA boundary changes.
- Use estimated median family income values for MSAs, MDs, or statewide nonmetropolitan areas, as applicable, to identify the income levels of geographies.
- Update public file information.
- Retain a description of the bank’s assessment area delineation prior to January 1, 2004, for examination purposes.
- Adjust CRA program implementation, as applicable, to reflect MSA and assessment area changes, if any.
- Discuss any significant changes resulting from the new OMB definitions that may affect the bank’s CRA performance context with the appropriate examiner.

On December 27, 2000, OMB published in the Federal Register a notice adopting new Standards for Defining Metropolitan and Micropolitan Statistical Areas. 65 FR 82228 (Dec. 27, 2000). These new standards replaced and superseded OMB’s 1990 standards for defining metropolitan areas. The 2000 standards retain the basic concept of an MSA (an area with at least 50,000 population) and continue to recognize that in large MSAs, demographic and economic conditions vary widely. According to OMB, those variations necessitate dividing large MSAs into “metropolitan divisions,” smaller statistical areas similar to PMSAs. Metropolitan divisions are only in MSAs that have a single core with a population of at least 2.5 million.

More than two years later, in June 2003, OMB announced the specific boundaries of the new MSAs, metropolitan divisions, and other statistical areas based on data from the 2000 Census. OMB Bulletin No. 03–04 (June 6, 2003), available at http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/bulletins/b03-04.html. OMB updated the list of MSAs and other statistical areas effective December 2003, in a bulletin issued in February 2004. OMB Bulletin No. 04–03 (February 18, 2004) available at http://www.whitehouse.gov/omb/bulletins/b04-03.html. In these bulletins, OMB directed all agencies that conduct statistical activities to collect and publish data for MSAs using the most recent definition of the area. To that end, the agencies have made a number of changes to the CRA regulations, which until now have conformed to OMB’s 1990 statistical area standards, to incorporate OMB’s new standards and definitions.

First, we removed the definition of “CMA” and all references to CMA’s in our regulations because OMB no longer uses that term. We replaced “CMA” with “MSA.”

Second, we revised the definition of “MSA” (§§ 52.12(r), 228.12(r), 345.12(r), and 563e.12(q)) to remove the reference to PMSA, another term that OMB no longer uses. The revised definition of “MSA” refers only to metropolitan statistical areas, as defined by OMB.

Third, we added a definition of “metropolitan division” (new §§ 25.12(g), 228.12(g), 345.12(g), and 563e.12(p)). In certain MSAs, OMB has delineated “metropolitan divisions” which are the statistical areas for which CRA data are to be reported, median family income is to be calculated, and within which an institution’s CRA performance is to be evaluated. These uses of the metropolitan divisions are consistent with the use of OMB’s 1990 standards in our CRA regulations in effect prior to this joint interim rule: Institutions reported the location of loans by PMSA if the loan was located in a CMSA; the agencies evaluated the institution’s performance at the PMSA level; and the agencies calculated median family income by PMSA, not by CMSA. Focusing on performance at the metropolitan division level also is consistent with OMB’s recent direction to Federal agencies to provide detailed data for each metropolitan division, in explanation of which OMB noted that “[a] Metropolitan Division is most generally comparable in concept, and equivalent to, the now obsolete Primary Metropolitan Statistical Area.” OMB Bulletin 04–03.

The agencies are aware that in some MSAs, OMB’s new designations of metropolitan divisions will result in the income level of census tracts changing without any actual change in the economic conditions of the area. Based on estimated data, the agencies believe that in most MSAs, any such changes will be de minimus. For example, many MSAs show negligible change in the median family income levels of census tracts. On the other hand, in the Detroit-Warren-Livonia MSA, changes in census tract income level may be significant; the application of OMB’s 2000 standards resulted in two metropolitan divisions, one consisting of Wayne county, which includes the inner city, and one consisting of the suburban counties that surround Wayne county. A number of geographies in the suburban metropolitan division that previously were classified as middle-income are now moderate-income, while in the urban metropolitan division (Wayne county), a similar number of moderate-income geographies are now middle-income. Examiners will consider these differences and the effect they may have on an institution’s CRA performance as part of the performance context applicable to the institution’s CRA examination and in connection with the institution’s delineation of assessment area(s).

Fourth, we changed our regulations (§§ 25.41, 228.41, 345.41, and 563e.41) to allow an institution to designate an assessment area that includes one or more metropolitan divisions, just as an institution until now could designate an

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Introduction

The agencies jointly are amending our regulations implementing the CRA (12 U.S.C. 2901 et seq.). This joint interim rule conforms the agencies’ CRA regulations to recent actions of OMB, Census, and the Board. (This joint interim rulemaking is unrelated to the agencies’ comprehensive review of the CRA regulations and the proposed revisions to the regulations that were published for comment on February 6, 2004, at 69 FR 5729.)

Changes Resulting From OMB Revisions

The OMB’s standards for defining statistical areas provide nationally consistent definitions for government agencies to use when collecting, tabulating, and publishing Federal statistics by geographic area. OMB updates the standards approximately every 10 years.

The agencies’ CRA regulations use OMB’s standards for defining metropolitan areas for purposes of CRA data collection and reporting, and for delineating institutions’ assessment area(s). Under OMB’s 1990 standards, metropolitan areas consisted of: (1) Metropolitan statistical areas (MSAs) and (2) larger consolidated metropolitan statistical areas (CMSAs). CMSAs consisted, in turn, of primary metropolitan statistical areas (PMSAs).
assessment area that includes one or more PMSAs. Under this joint interim rule, an institution may designate one or more metropolitan divisions, up to an entire MSA, as an assessment area.

Although the agencies’ regulations prior to publication of this joint interim rule allowed an institution to delineate an entire CMSA as an assessment area, examiners have evaluated CRA performance at the PMSA level, using PMSA income data. Under this joint interim rule, examiners will evaluate CRA performance at the metropolitan division level, even if the institution delineates an assessment area of more than one metropolitan division or an entire MSA.

Fifth, prior to this joint interim rule, §§ 25.41(e)[4], 228.41(e)[4], 345.41(e)[4], and 563e.41(e)[4] stated that an assessment area “may not extend substantially beyond a CMSA boundary * * *.” We have changed these provisions to replace “CMSA” with “MSA.” These changes conform the terminology in this section to the new OMB area standards. The regulations still allow an institution to delineate an assessment area consisting of more than one MSA. See §§ 21.41(c)[1], 228.41(c)[1], 345.41(c)[1], and 563e.41(c)[1]. The border of such an assessment area, however, may not extend substantially beyond the boundaries of the MSAs in the assessment area.

Sixth, we added a new definition of “nonmetropolitan area,” which is an area that is not included in an MSA (new §§ 25.12(s), 228.12(s), 345.12(s), and 563e.12(r)). This definition will encompass areas covered by the new OMB term “micropolitan statistical area.” Because micropolitan statistical areas are not located in MSAs, they are part of the nonmetropolitan area of a state. In a related matter, the agency-prepared annual aggregate disclosure statements will continue to include a statement for the non-MSA portion of every state, which will include all micropolitan statistical areas in the state. We changed the reference to “non-MSA portion of state” in §§ 25.42(i), 228.42(i), 345.42(i), and 563e.42(i) to “micropolitan statistical portion of each state” to ensure clarity.

Changes Resulting From Census Revisions

Prior to this joint interim rule, the CRA regulations defined a “home mortgage loan” to mean a “home improvement loan” or a “home purchase loan” as defined in 12 CFR 203.2. The interagency CRA guidance that we published clarified that this definition of “home mortgage loan” also includes refinancings of home improvement and home purchase loans. See 66 FR 36620, 36628 (July 12, 2001) (question 1 addressing §§ 21.41(m) & 563e.12(l)).

The Board substantially revised Regulation C (12 CFR 203) in 2002, effective January 1, 2004. 67 FR 7222 (Feb. 15, 2002). Before these revisions, a lender could choose among four standards to determine which refinancings to report: two of the standards considered the purpose of the loan being refinanced. The revised Regulation C replaced this approach with a definition of “refinancing” that applies uniformly, namely, a loan is reportable as a refinancing if an obligation satisfies and replaces another obligation, and both the existing obligation and the new obligation are secured by a lien on a dwelling. 12 CFR 203.2(k). Under this definition, the purpose of the loan being refinanced is not considered. Furthermore, if the obligation meets the definition of a “refinancing” under the revised Regulation C, then it is reportable even if it is not a “refinancing” under Regulation Z requiring new disclosures.

See 12 CFR 226.20(a). As a result of the revisions to Regulation C, we changed the definition of “home mortgage loan” in the CRA regulations to include refinancings, as well as home purchase loans and home improvement loans, as defined in 12 CFR 203.2.

In some cases, the new definition of “home mortgage loan” could lead to “double counting” of certain loans because refinancings reported under HMDA and evaluated under CRA may also be reported as refinancings of small business or small farm loans under CRA. The definition of “small business loan” under the CRA regulations incorporates the Consolidated Report of Condition and Income (Call Report) or Thrift Financial Report (TFR) definition of “loans to small businesses.” See §§ 25.12(u), 228.12(u), 345.12(u), and 563e.12(t). The Call Report and TFR instructions exclude from this category loans secured by residential real estate. See Schedule RC–C, part II, Loans to Small Businesses and Small Farms; Schedule RC–C, part I, item 1.e.; Schedule RC–C, part I, item 4 (list of exclusions); see also TFR Schedule SB. However, a loan secured by real estate nonetheless is considered not secured by real estate for purposes of the Call Report instructions if the security interest is taken “solely through an abundance of caution and where the terms as a consequence have not been made more favorable than they would have been in the absence of the lien.” See Call Report Glossary definition of “Loan Secured by Real Estate.” Thrifts, on the other hand, have the option of reporting such loans as small business loans or home mortgage loans. See TFR Instructions and Schedule SB.

Under this standard, a financial institution could report a loan secured by a dwelling as a small business loan. If such a loan were to a small business, as “loan to small business” is defined in the Call Report and TFR instructions, the institution would report the loan, for CRA purposes, as a small business loan. A refinancing of such a loan, moreover, would be reported for CRA purposes as a refinancing of a small business loan. If the refinancing is secured by a dwelling and it satisfies or replaces another loan that was secured by a dwelling, the refinancing would also be reported as a refinancing of a mortgage loan under HMDA and, therefore, also considered as a “home mortgage loan” in the institution’s CRA evaluation.

Similarly, some refinancings of small farm loans that are reported as small farm loans on Schedule RC–C, part II of the Call Report and Schedule SB and, thus, are included as small farm loans for CRA data reporting purposes, are also reported as refinancings under HMDA and captured as home mortgage loans for CRA evaluation purposes. Schedule RC–C, part II and TFR Schedule SB require reporting of “loans secured by farmland (including farm residential and other improvements)” and “loans to finance agricultural production and other loans to farms” that have original amounts of $500,000 or less. Loans in either category could be secured by a dwelling, either primarily as part of the farmland, in the first category, or through an abundance of caution, in the second category. Institutions would report refinancings of such loans on the Call Report and the TFR as loans to small farms and also under HMDA as refinancings.

We do not anticipate that loans counted as both “small business/small farm loans” and “home mortgage loans” will be so numerous as to affect the typical institution’s CRA rating. In the event that an institution reports a significant number or amount of loans as both home mortgage and small business or farm loans, examiners will consider that overlap in evaluating the institution’s performance.

Technical Correction

We also have corrected an error in the cross-reference found in §§ 25.27(g)(1), 228.27(g)(1), 345.27(g)(1), and 563e.27(g)(1). Those provisions, which address the time for an agency’s decision following receipt of a completed strategic plan, previously referred the reader to paragraph (d) of §§ 25.27, 228.27, 345.27, or 563e.27, respectively, for a description of the materials that had to be included with a strategic plan submission. This information is found instead in paragraph (e) of §§ 25.27, 228.27, 345.27, or 563e.27. Therefore, we corrected the cross-references in §§ 25.27(g)(1), 228.27(g)(1), 345.27(g)(1), and 563e.27(g)(1) to refer to paragraph (e) of §§ 25.27, 228.27, 345.27, and 563e.27, respectively.

Timing and Comments

This joint interim rule is effective immediately. Institutions must be aware that overlap in evaluating the typical institution’s CRA rating. In the event that an institution reports a significant number or amount of loans as both home mortgage and small business or farm loans, examiners will consider that overlap in evaluating the institution’s performance.

Effective Date

The Administrative Procedure Act provides that, subject to several exceptions, a substantive rule may not be made effective until 30 days after publication in the Federal Register. 5 U.S.C. 553(d). However, an agency may make a rule immediately effective upon publication if the agency finds good cause for doing so and publishes its findings with the rule. Likewise, section 302 of the Riegle Community Development and Regulatory Improvement Act of 1994 (CDRI), Pub. L. 103–325, authorizes a banking agency to issue a rule to be effective before the first day of the calendar quarter that begins on or after the date on which the regulations are published in final form if the agency finds good cause for an earlier effective date. 12 U.S.C. 4802(b)(1).

This joint interim rule takes effect immediately. The agencies find good cause to dispense with the 30-day delayed effective date pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3). The agencies also have determined that good cause exists to adopt an effective date that is before the first day of the calendar quarter that begins on or after the date on which the regulation is published, as would otherwise be required by section 102 of the CDRI (12 U.S.C. 4802(b)(1)). As discussed more fully earlier in this preamble, the changes adopted in this joint interim rule merely conform our CRA regulations to recent changes by OMB, Census, and the Board. These changes are not substantive; the technical correction merely corrects a cross-reference. Financial institutions must use the new statistical area standards and definitions when adjusting assessment area delineations and collecting loan data during calendar year 2004 (beginning with loans made as of January 1, 2004) for reporting by March 1, 2005. Therefore, this joint interim rule must take effect immediately upon publication in the Federal Register in order to eliminate potential confusion for financial institutions attempting to comply with their 2004 data collection requirements. For the foregoing reasons, the agencies have determined that it is unnecessary and contrary to public interest to delay the effective date of this joint interim rule.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

Pursuant to section 605(b) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 605(b)), the OCC, Board, FDIC, and OTS hereby certify that this joint interim rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The agencies expect that this joint interim rule will not have significant secondary or incidental effects on a substantial number of small entities, or create any additional burden on small entities. This joint interim rule merely makes a technical correction and conforms terminology in the current CRA regulations with terms and definitions already adopted by OMB, Census, and the Board. Accordingly, a regulatory flexibility analysis is not required.

OCC and OTS Executive Order 12866 Determination

The OCC and the OTS have determined that this joint interim rule is not a significant regulatory action as defined in Executive Order 12866.

OCC and OTS Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 Determination

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Unfunded Mandates Act) (2 U.S.C. 1532) requires that covered agencies prepare a budgetary impact statement before promulgating a rule that includes any Federal mandate that may result in the expenditure by State, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year. If a budgetary impact statement is required, section 205 of the Unfunded Mandates Act also requires covered agencies to identify and consider a reasonable number of regulatory alternatives before promulgating a rule. The OCC and the OTS have determined that this joint interim rule will not result in expenditures by State, local, and tribal governments, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year. Accordingly, neither agency has prepared a budgetary impact statement or specifically addressed the regulatory alternatives considered.

The Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act, 1999—Assessment of Impact of Federal Regulation on Families

The FDIC has determined that this joint interim rule will not affect family well-being within the meaning of section 654 of the Treasury and General Government Appropriations Act, 1999, as part of the Omnibus Consolidated and Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of

Paperwork Reduction Act

There are no collection of information requirements in this joint interim rule.
Solicitation of Comments Regarding the Use of “Plain Language”

Section 722 of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act of 1999, 12 U.S.C. 4809, requires the agencies to use “plain language” in all proposed and final rules published after January 1, 2000. We invite comments on whether this joint interim rule is stated clearly and effectively organized, and how we might make the regulatory text easier to read.

OCC Executive Order 13132 Determination

The OCC has determined that this joint interim rule does not have any Federalism implications, as required by Executive Order 13132.
