On December 27, 2004, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (the Board) published in the Federal Register the attached final rule amending the staff commentary that interprets the requirements of Regulation C. By this amendment, the Board has raised the asset size exemption threshold to $34 million for depository institutions that are required to report data under the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act (HMDA). The previous exemption level was $33 million. Institutions with assets of $34 million or less as of December 31, 2004, will not be required to collect HMDA data in 2005. This revision is mandated by provisions of the Economic Growth and Regulatory Paperwork Reduction Act of 1996. The adjustment reflects changes in the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers for the 12-month period ending in November 2004.

An institution's exemption from collecting data in 2005 does not affect its responsibility to report the data it was required to collect in 2004. The adjustment is effective January 1, 2005.

If there are questions on this adjustment or any other HMDA-related issue, please contact the HMDA help line at (202) 452-2016 or via e-mail to hmdahelp@frb.gov. Questions may also be addressed to your supervisory office or to the Compliance Division at (202) 874-4428.

SUMMARY: The Board is publishing a final rule amending the staff commentary that interprets the requirements of Regulation C (Home Mortgage Disclosure). The staff commentary is amended to increase the asset-size exemption threshold for depository institutions based on the annual percentage change in the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers. The adjustment from $33 million to $34 million reflects the increase of that index by 2.45 percent during the twelve-month period ending in November 2004. Thus, depository institutions with assets of $34 million or less as of December 31, 2004, are exempt from data collection in 2005.

DATES: Effective January 1, 2005. This rule applies to all data collection in 2005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Home Mortgage Disclosure Act (HMDA; 12 U.S.C. 2801 et seq.) requires most mortgage lenders located in metropolitan areas to collect data about their housing-related lending activity. Annually, lenders must report that data to their federal supervisory agencies and make the data available to the public.

The Board’s Regulation C (12 CFR part 203) implements HMDA. Provisions of the Economic Growth and Regulatory Paperwork Reduction Act of 1996 (codified at 12 U.S.C. 2808(b)) amended HMDA to expand the exemption for small depository institutions. Prior to 1997, HMDA exempted depository institutions with assets totaling $10 million or less, as of the preceding year-end. The statutory amendment increased the asset-size exemption threshold by requiring a one-time adjustment of the $10 million figure based on the percentage by which the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPIW) for 1996 exceeded the CPIW for 1975, and provided for annual adjustments thereafter based on the annual percentage increase in the CPIW. The one-time adjustment increased the exemption threshold to $28 million for 1997 data collection.

Section 203.2(e)(1)(i) of Regulation C provides that the Board will adjust the threshold based on the year-to-year change in the average of the CPIW, not seasonally adjusted, for each twelve-month period ending in November, rounded to the nearest million. Pursuant to this section, the Board adjusted the threshold to $29 million for 1998 data collection, raised it to $30 million for 1999 data collection, and kept it at that level for data collection in 2000. The Board raised the threshold to $31 million for data collection in 2001, to $32 million for data collection in 2002, and kept the threshold at $32 million in 2003, and raised the threshold to $33 million for 2004.

During the period ending November 2004, the CPIW increased by 2.45 percent. As a result, the exemption threshold is raised to $34 million. Thus, depository institutions with assets of $34 million or less as of December 31, 2004, are exempt from data collection in 2005. An institution’s exemption from collecting data in 2005 does not affect its responsibility to report the data it was required to collect in 2004.

Under the Administrative Procedure Act, notice and opportunity for public comment are not required if the Board finds that notice and public comment are unnecessary. 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(3)(B). Comment 2(e)–2 to section 203.2 of the regulation is amended to implement the increase in the exemption threshold. This amendment merely applies the formula established by Regulation C for determining adjustments to the exemption threshold. For these reasons, the Board has determined that publishing a notice of proposed rulemaking and providing opportunity for public comment are unnecessary. Therefore, the amendment is adopted in final form.
